

FALL PRESENTATIONS IN 2006

*

Saturday December 9, 2006

Lawrence M. Solan, Don Forchelli Professor of Law, Brooklyn Law School:
Can We Tolerate Variation in Understanding the Law?

*

Saturday November 11, 2006

Edgar Radtke, Romanisches Seminar der Universität Heidelberg:
New Horizons for Romance Linguistics? How to solve the Methodological Problems

*

Saturday October 21, 2006

Gita Martohardjono, Dept. of Linguistics, CUNY Graduate School:
The Comparison Between Children's and Second Language Learners' Adults' Acquisition of Tense and Aspect

*

SPRING PRESENTATIONS IN 2006

*

Saturday October May 13, 2006

Stephanie Smolinsky, New York City College of Technology, CUNY: Sound Patterns and Meaning in Keats' Bright Star: a Computational Approach

*

Saturday March 11, 2006

Harold Schiffman, University of Pennsylvania:
When Language Policy Fails: the Problem of Implementation

*

Saturday, February 11, 2006

Daniel Lowit, University of Helsinki, Finno-Ugric Department
Syntactic Borrowing in Proto-Finnic: The Role of Reconstruction

FALL PRESENTATIONS IN 2005

*

Saturday, December 10, 2005

David Prager Branner, University of Maryland
The True Color of Mandarin Chinese

*

Saturday, November 12, 2005

Suresh Canagarajah, Baruch College, CUNY
Negotiating Power in Global English

*

Saturday, October 1, 2005

Robert Phillipson, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark
Language Rights in a neo-imperial world: English for uniting or dividing?

*

SPRING PRESENTATIONS IN 2005

*

Saturday, May 14, 2005

Rafael Orozco, Mercy College
A Sociolinguistic Examination of the Expressions of Future Time and Nominal Possession in Colombian Spanish

*

March 19, 2005

Emmanuele Banfi:

The Acquisition of Relative Clauses by Chinese People Learning Italian
Spontaneously as a Second Language: Structural and Typological Considerations

*

February 12, 2005

Robert Leonard, Hofstra University

The Law is Language, the Law is Data:

Forensic Linguistics, NYPD BLUE, and the Importance of Schemas

*

FALL PRESENTATIONS IN 2004

*

December 11, 2004

Michele Knobel, Montclair State University,

The Medium and the Message: A Sociocultural Analysis of Power, Writing and the Blogosphere

Series on Multimodal Discourse Analysis

*

November 13, 2004, 11 am

Ron and Suzanne Wong Scollon, Department of Linguistics, Georgetown University

Multimodality, Virtual Networks and Social Change:

Problems in Multimodal Discourse Analysis

*

October 10, 2004

David K. Barnhart: "Neology: the newest of the new."

*

SPRING PRESENTATIONS IN 2004

Series on Multimodal Discourse

*

April 10, 2004

Carey Jewitt, The Institute of Education, University of London

Reshaping Learning: New Technologies & Multimodality

*

February 7, 2004

Kevin M. Leander, Vanderbilt University

Literacy Networks: Following the Circulation of Texts, Bodies and Discourses in the Online and Offline Literacy Practices of Adolescents

*

PRESENTATIONS IN 2003

*

December 6, 2003

Dr. Sigrid Norris, CCE Consulting, LLC & Georgetown University

Multimodal Interactional Analysis: Some Theoretical and Methodological Notions

*

November 8,

Professor Ricardo Otheguy, Graduate Center, City University of New York
Contact and Leveling in Pronominal Usage in Six Dialects of Spanish in New York

*

October 11, 2003

Professors Elana Shohamy and Tamar Levin. Tel Aviv University
Assessing the Achievement in Mathematics and Hebrew of Immigrant Students in Israel:
Results and Issues

*

Saturday, April 26, 2003

Brian V. Street, King's College, London, U.K.
What's New in New Literacy Studies?

*

Saturday, March 1, 2003

Aurolyn Luykx, University of Miami, Florida
Language Ideologies and Linguistic Standardization in Andean South America

*

Saturday, February 15, 2003

Kate Allen, Kanda University & John Ingulsrud, Meisei University, Japan
First Steps to Literacy in Chinese Classrooms

*

PRESENTATIONS IN 2002

*

Saturday, December 14, 2002

Rudolf P. Gaudio, Department of Anthropology, Purchase College, SUNY
The Political Economy of Casual Conversation, or Why We Pay to Talk at Starbucks

*

Saturday, November 9, 2002

Allan Luke, Graduate School of Education, University of Queensland DISCOURSE and MATERIALISM: APOLOGIES, CAPITAL and ABORIGINAL EDUCATION

*

Saturday, October 12, 2002

Aneta Pavlenko, Temple University
Bilingualism and Emotions

*

Saturday, May 11, 2002,

John Algeo, Professor Emeritus, University of Georgia
The Briticisms Are Coming!
The Influence of British English on the American Language

*

Saturday, March 9, 2002

Bede McCormack, Teachers College, Columbia University
The Maintenance and Loss of Reflexive Binding in the L2 English of Japanese-English
Bilinguals

*

Saturday, February 9, 2002

Kamal K. Sridhar, SUNY, STONY BROOK
Patterns of Acquisition and Maintenance of a Transplanted Language